

WILL BUSH AND CHENEY BREAK THEIR PROMISE TO AMERICA'S POLICE?

Tomorrow we find out.

Tomorrow Vice President Cheney speaks to the National Rifle Association convention in Pittsburgh.

What a golden opportunity to tell the NRA the President wants the federal assault weapons ban renewed!

This law bans military-style rapid-fire assault rifles like Uzis and AK-47s—weapons of choice of violent gangs and drug traffickers. The ban was a huge step forward for law enforcement. It has saved cops' lives.

There's just one problem: The NRA hates it.

They've taken dead aim on the assault weapons ban. They want to wipe it from the books.

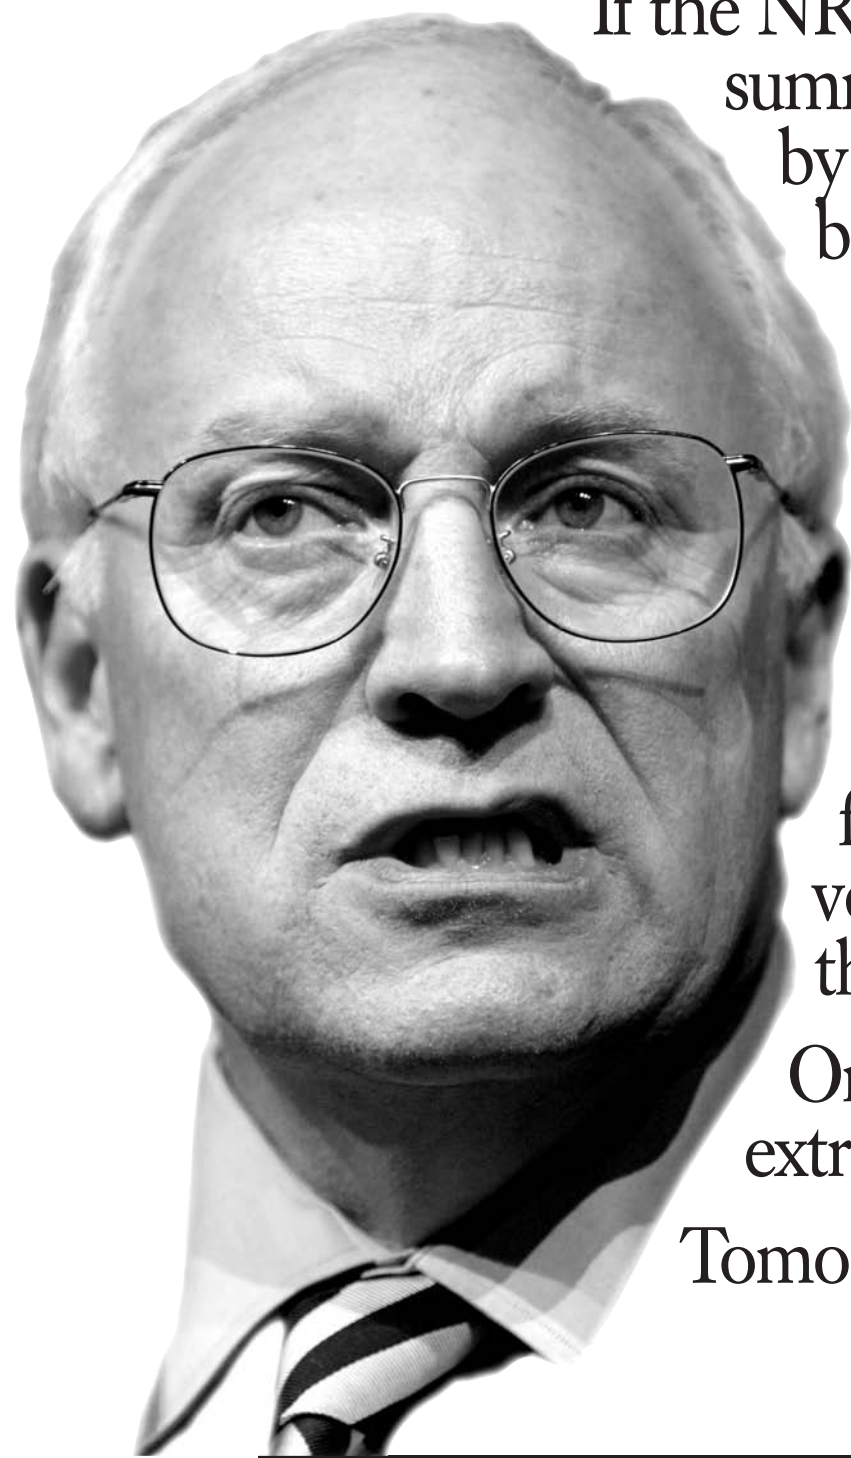

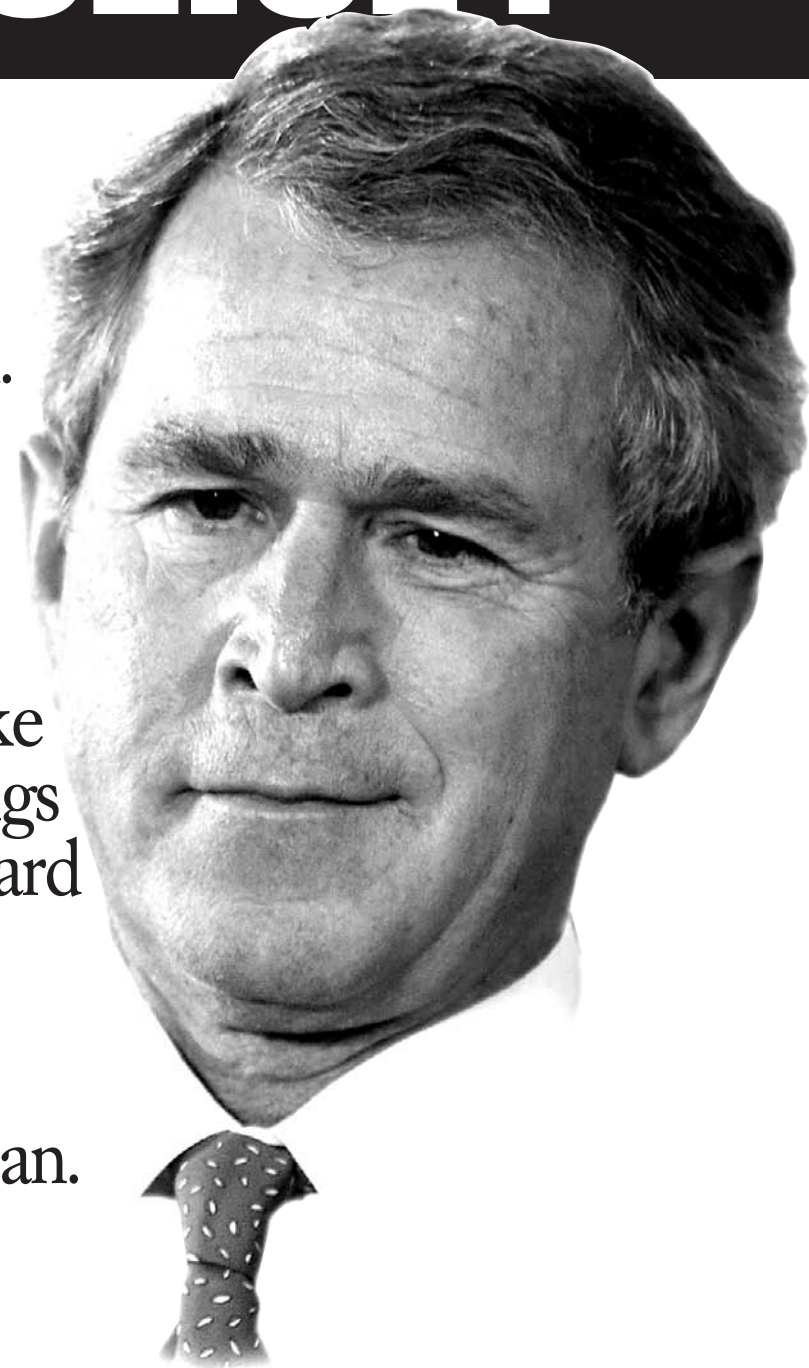

If the NRA gets its way, by the end of summer police officers on your streets will be outgunned by fast, efficient cop-killing machines that have been banned for a decade.

The President says he supports renewing the assault weapons ban. But he's done absolutely nothing to make that happen. Here's his chance to do what he says—and confront the one special interest in America that's blocking renewal.

Every national law enforcement agency in America fought hard to get this ban passed. 77% of America's voters want it renewed. Will the President stand with the American people and America's police?

Or will he cave in to the extremists at the NRA?

Tomorrow: Read Cheney's lips.
